Lutheran Ministers Honor Rev. Myers, 85

The Rev. S. D. Myers, who, although 85 years old and retired still manages to preach occasionally in area Lutheran Churches, was honored on his birthday Wednesday noon when pastors of Lutheran congregations in northern Columbiana and southern Mahoning County held a luncheon at the Lape Hotel.

Rev. Myers is pictured above (center) flanked (l.) by Rev.

Donald Rice of St. John's Lutheran Church at Petersburg, president of the Noco-Soma Lutheran Pastors Association, and (r.) Rev. William Zimmann, pastor of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church at New Springfield, youngest minister of the group.

Rev. Myers, who now resides at 2106 S. Seneca Ave., Alliance, was pastor of the Washingtonville Trinity Lutheran Church for 10 years before he retired March 31, 1959. Previously he served as pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Alliance.

A native of West Moreland County, Pa., he is a graduate of Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. (1899), and Chicago Lutheran Seminary in 1902, with degrees of B.A. and B.D. His 57-year ministry has been with congregations in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Soviet Union, U.S. Collide on Red China Issue

Big Powers Agree Question of U.N. Seat To Be Argued

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union come to grips today on the perennial issue of giving Red China a U.N. seat. For the first time in a decade both agree the General Assembly should debate the question.

The two big powers are sure to clash, however, when the 21-nation Steering Committee meets later in the day to decide how the explosive question shall be placed before the 99-nation assembly.

Still opposed to admitting the Peiping regime, the United States has agreed only to assembly debate on the issue.

Several Cold War Disputes

The Red China issue was one of several serious cold war disputes that cropped up either on the agenda or in the background almost as soon as the assembly met Tuesday. Among others are Berlin, disarmament and the future of the United Nations itself. This last involves the task of choosing a successor to the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, in the face of stern Soviet opposition.

In the Steering Committee, the United States is determined to block the Soviet demand that the United Nations recognize Peiping as rightful holder of the seat now occupied by Nationalist China.

The U.S. delegation announced support for a New Zealand proposal to debate the over-all question of who should represent China. And the U.S. or one of its allies is expected to move for creation of a special committee to study the issue and report back to the assembly next year.

Will Fight Maneuver

Aware that this would have the same effect as shelving the issue, the Communists are certain to fight the maneuver. But delegates believe the study plan will get majority support.

In the hunt for a new secretary-general, the Soviet Union killed hopes of East-West agreement by turning down a widely supported plan to name a representative of a nonaligned nation as interim successor until a permanent secretary-general can be agreed upon.

The Soviets insisted they would settle only for Premier Khrushchev's troika plan—a three-man board representing the Western, Communist and neutral nations, each with veto power.

The Western powers are certain such a setup would paralyze the United Nations. They were re-

ATLANTIC BEACH MEETS ESTHER — Wind tossed waves, the advance force of hurricane Esther, pound the coast of Atlantic Beach, N.C.

But Esther Still Has Winds Of 100 m.p.h.

Hurricane Nearing Cape Cod; Kennedy Children Removed

By The Associated Press
Hurricane Esther apparently lost some of her punch today as she approached Cape Cod and offshore Massachusetts islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard.

The Weather Bureau at Boston at 9 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, said the hurricane had slowed down and was giving indication of a slight weakening.

Southeast of Block Island

The storm was centered about 50 miles south southeast of Block Island, R.I., at that time and was moving northeastward at about five miles an hour. Winds, however, were said to be about 100 miles an hour south of Cape Cod.

Hurricane warnings remain displayed from eastern Long Island, N.Y., to Eastport, Maine, with gale warnings to Cape May, N.J.

The hurricane watch was discontinued in Connecticut and in the New York City area.

No sustained hurricane winds were reported along the coasts of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine.

As a precaution, children in the summer compound of President Kennedy were removed at dawn to Otis Air Force Base, 18 miles away from Hyannis Port. Five cars were used to move the Kennedy vacationists who included the President's children, Caroline and John Jr. Secret Service Request

The Secret Service requested they move.

Others leaving the Kennedy compound were the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith; three of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawford; and one of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kennedy.

The President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, and Ann Gargan, a cousin of the President, stayed at the elder Kennedy's summer home to ride out the storm.

Other evacuees, Civil Defense reported, were at least 20 families from a lowlying area in Falmouth, also on Cape Cod.

Southern New England geared for a heavy rainfall with flash flooding in many places.

The slowdown of Esther, the Weather Bureau said, meant it would not reach southern Cape Cod until afternoon.

At Fairhaven, Mass., near New Bedford, about 1,000 families, totaling 4,000 persons, were evacuated to higher-ground shelters.

A battery of National Guardsmen was ordered to duty by Falmouth selectmen.

Short of Expectation

Nantucket Islanders, who grimly batted everything down Wednesday when informed the eye of the hurricane might pass over the island, reported that up to mid-morning the blow had fallen far short of the 60-65-mile gales to which islanders are accustomed.

Highest velocity measured was a 48-mile gust. Sustained northeast winds were 28 to 38 miles an hour at the time the Nantucket Weather Bureau radar tracking station reported the eye of the hurricane 50 miles southeast of Block Island, R.I.

The expected rise of five to nine feet in the forenoon tide failed to reach that height at Nantucket. Only eight of some 40 families heeded warnings to leave the waterfront area.

More than an inch and a half of rain fell at Boston in little more

Warren Steel Mill Dedicated

Huge Plant Almost Fully Automated

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Republic Steel Corp. dedicated a $55 million continuous hot strip mill today—a mill which President Representative Thomas F. Patton said "represents a major advance in the direction of a fully automated mill."

However, Patton added, the new Warren mill will mean "we are going to require more men in finishing facilities. . . we are going to need more men than we have displaced."

The hot strip mill, spread over an area equivalent to six football fields, requires manpower about equal to six 11-man football teams. An automatic punched-card system directs slabs of up to 25 tons through the scale-washing, edging and roughing and into a six-stand finishing mill. Strips of up to 52 inches in width are rolled.

The 140,000-ton-a-month capacity of the new mill is about double that of the pre-World War I 42-inch roll mill it replaced. The manpower requirement is only one-fourth greater, mainly in the

Rusk, Gromyko Air Cold War Disputes

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk opens a series of cold war talks with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today in a delicate and dangerous diplomatic maneuver to find out whether the Soviet Union is interested in a compromise settlement of the Berlin crisis.

The two men scheduled a lunch-conference for the first of a

Fallout Tests To Be Expanded

Radiation Level Not Harmful Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service is expanding its fallout detection network and is speeding efforts to determine whether any significant health hazard may be expected from the Soviet Union's nuclear tests in the atmosphere, it was learned today.

At the same time, top fallout experts of the agency told a reporter that even the comparatively high levels of atmospheric radiation reported at least temporarily in some parts of the country could be exceeded many times without necessarily posing a significant health threat.

They said it all boils down to this: Regardless of what the atmospheric readings show, any threat to health depends on how much and what kinds of radioactive material ultimately are ingested by people in milk, water and food—or are inhaled.

So far, the said, they have not made sufficient tests to enable estimates on these latter points—but some new steps are designed to help speed such assessments.

They disclosed these new actions:

1. Two additional fallout detection stations were added during the past few days to add to the 45 stations in 39 states. The new ones are at Bismarck, N.D., and Nashville, Tenn.

series of discussions expected to continue into next week. Rusk invited Gromyko to the meeting in his suite at a midtown hotel. Several policy advisers on each side also will attend.

Berlin was the central issue of the meeting but aides of both men said there was no doubt they would also discuss the crisis in the United Nations arising from Soviet opposition to appointment of a successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Gromyko gave no advance sign of any Soviet yielding on either of the two great problems that have brought the world's two mightiest powers into threatening confrontation.

Rusk was reported in an adamant mood, determined to warn the Soviet government anew of war dangers in the Berlin dispute and of Western fears for the future of the U.N.

Rusk, who took the initiative in setting up the talks, faced the tricky task of sounding out Soviet views on Berlin negotiations without giving Gromyko any impression that the Western Allies are acting from weakness or fear of war. Such an impression, Western diplomats said, would increase the danger of war over Berlin by encouraging a Soviet miscalculation of Western intentions.

Rusk was reported intent on getting across two points to Gromyko: First, the Western powers will not consider negotiating away their West Berlin rights or tolerate interference with their access to the city. Second, the Western powers are prepared to negotiate on German problems, including Berlin, though they will not negotiate on the Soviet Union's terms.

Post Office Probe Of Letters Possible

The Post Office may issue an extradition warrant to bring the author of the letters to Columbiana County for a hearing, it was indicated.

Katanga Cease-Fire In Effect

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—An uneasy cease-fire was proclaimed today in embattled Katanga but the danger of civil war still hung over the Congo. President Moise Tshombe of Katanga and the U.N. command signed a provisional cease-fire that froze the positions of their warring forces. Still unsettled is the issue that led to the shooting—Katanga's secession.

While a lull in the fighting was already evident before the peace pact was reached there were no immediate reports whether all shooting had stopped according to the timetable set for one minute past midnight.

A new threat came from the Congo central government, which has been a bystander during the eight days of fighting between the Katanga forces and U.N. troops acting at the government request.

With Tshombe as adamant as ever in keeping his mineral-rich province independent, Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula alerted the Congolese army with the declaration the central government would "spare no effort to end Katanga's secession."

Speaking in Leopoldville before the cease-fire was announced, Adoula warned his government "will reply to force with force."

The shadow of the late Patrice Lumumba hung over the Congo capital. Supporters of the slain leftist former premier demonstrated in the streets shouting anti-Western slogans, and Soviet diplomats, kicked out after Lumumba's overthrow, moved back to set up shop again.

The provisional cease-fire calling for a freeze in all military operations in Katanga was reached Wednesday night in a cordial but cool atmosphere on neutral grounds in this Northern Rhodesian frontier town.

Smiling and outwardly confident, Tshombe made the announcement first at a news conference. Mahmoud Khiri of

UAW Tackles Local Problems

Union, GM Agree On National Pact

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union—its threat of a nationwide strike against General Motors Corp. quashed—aimed today at a new approach to local problems holding up complete settlement of a new contract with GM.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, said Wednesday night the union has "developed a new approach to expedite the settlements of unresolved local issues."

He scheduled a 10 a.m. meeting today of the General Motors Council, a union advisory board, to discuss the new approach. Reuther declined to elaborate on the plan.

Today's meeting followed a hectic night which saw the council vote to accept a GM-UAW national agreement on the money package and national work rules. A few hours later, however, the council voted to ask the UAW International Executive Board for authority to strike GM in support of local contract demands.

The board, governing body of the UAW, met quickly. Less than

'Tranquilizers' Win Acceptance

Suppose I reported to you that, after giving a new tranquilizer to a group of 60 hospitalized patients for six weeks, I received the following evaluations:

Ten patients said they felt less tense and more relaxed. Four experienced a feeling of unusual well-being. One each attested to improved sleep, better insight, increased resistance to fatigue and a lessening of a psoriasis rash.

Nurses in charge of these patients independently noted that 13 were more sociable. Seven showed improved spirits. Six were more relaxed. Three each appeared more co-operative or slept better.

The psychiatrists in charge, also independently, found nine more comfortable and less anxious, seven less moody, six more energetic and sociable, two sleeping better and one with an improvement of his rash.

Suppose I then reported to you that, after giving a new pepper-upper to another group of 60 patients, I received these evaluations:

Six patients said they felt more relaxed and less tense. Three experienced well-being and cheerfulness. Two were more energetic. One each attested to better appetite and improved digestion.

The nurses in charge of these patients independently noted that 14 were more sociable. Three seemed less depressed. Two were more energetic. Another pair was more alert. One man slept better and another had a better appetite.

And the psychiatrists in charge, also independently, found six of their patients more cheerful and less depressed. Another group of six was more sociable and communicative. Three appeared more interested in their surroundings. Another trio was more active and showed more initiative. Two more less tense. Another pair was less worrisome. And one each slept better, ate better or gained weight.

The reason I thought these reports might interest you rests in the fact that they are the results of a study made at the Westchester Division of the New York Hospital after the first group was given an orange tablet that contained only milk sugar and enough quinine to give a bitter taste. And the second, a yellow tablet of milk sugar and a lime salt to give a bland taste!

Thus, in each instance, the patient received a dud pill without his knowledge or the knowledge of the attending staff. With the exception of those who conducted the experiment, no one knew that the new "tranquilizer" and the new "energizer" were blanks.

Here's how the true investigators summarized the experience: "The tendency to ascribe improvement to what were considered to be active drugs illustrated the dubious value of studies which do not employ controlled procedures — double-blind tests in which neither patients nor doctors know what is being given."

But what a gold mine for those who write and broadcast only those "facts" that yield testimonials for their product!

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court is scheduled to hear the appeal Tuesday in a contest-of-election suit involving Dr. W. A. James, former Trumbull County commissioner, and Joseph Baldine, present commissioner.

Common Pleas Court Judge W. W. Badger upset the apparent reelection of Dr. James, a Republican, last November. The judge ruled Baldine winner by 11 votes after Baldine, a Democrat, filed a contest-of-election suit.

They're Counting On Us

Another thing the Communists couldn't have done better if they'd planned it is the gritty American resolve to save the United Nations, on the assumption the Soviet Union wants to wreck it.

The last thing the Soviet Union wants to do is wreck the United Nations. It's the only spot where U.S.S.R. spokesmen must be listened to by governments that would walk out under other circumstances.

It's the one place where the Communist Conspiracy can gloss over its ham-fisted tactics with an appearance of legality.

And it is the place where Communist plotters are hoping to line up votes to create the illusion that the United States has dwindled to minority status in a reddening world.

The United Nations is the best bargain the Soviet Union ever dreamed of having a share in. The only thing wrong with it as far as the Russians are concerned, was its secretary-general, Dag Hammarskjold, who was not intimidated by Russian bully-boy tactics — and Hammarskjold has been removed by fate. The only thing wrong with it before Hammarskjold was Trygve Lie, equally unimpressed by Russian tactics — and he was forced out by the Kremlin, which had been using pressure against Hammarskjold.

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics loves the United Nations.

IT IS MADE to order for Communist dialects.

Nothing could be a more exciting challenge to a government that believes the ultimate goal of world domination by the Communist Conspiracy justifies every means.

All the Russian plotters would have to do now is muster a majority for a secretary-general sympathetic to them, and the United States would have no choice but to get out of the United Nations. It would take with it its few real friends, presumably, though not certainly.

THE MAIN THING to bear in mind is that no one is counting more heavily on the United Nations than the Russians. With a little luck, they can use it to boost Red China into international society. With a lot of luck and arm-twisting, they can use it to vote the United States out of international society, using machinery created by the United States itself.

Many things have changed since the United States dared to hope the United Nations would be an international organization of nations possessing good will and a common interest in the freedom of men.

One thing, however, is still the same. The Soviet Union still doesn't give a whoop about freedom and good will. It is still using the United Nations as it used it from the outset — as a means of undermining freedom and good will.

'Come Let Us Negotiate'

This is the time, if ever, that the Soviet Union must prove it is willing to negotiate about difficult problems like Berlin.

"Negotiate" used to mean to confer regarding a basis of agreement. But that is not what it means to Communists when they negotiate.

That isn't what it will mean if they agree to negotiate about Berlin.

To a Communist negotiator, the trick is to grab everything that isn't nailed down, then negotiate for the rest. It is not a conference about a basis of agreement but a lull in the confiscation while the Kremlin decides what is going to be done about the things not already confiscated.

It is like a spider negotiating with a fly about which part of the fly should be eaten next.

It is like the burglar who already has taken the family silver negotiating with the owner of the house over the key to the vault where valuable papers are kept.

It is like a holdup victim being given a chance to negotiate over where he can keep his empty billfold after the robber has taken all the money.

Communists always are willing to negotiate about things they want but never about things the other side wants. They will negotiate about West Berlin because they want West Berlin. But they will not negotiate about East Berlin because they already have East Berlin.

What If It Did Happen?

It's legal now, Salem citizens can build bomb shelters if they want to.

City Council's action Tuesday night in amending the zoning laws will permit the construction of fallout shelters no matter what the classification of your neighborhood.

To our knowledge, there are no bomb shelters—either public or private—although local Civil Defense officials have recommended them and other preparedness moves for several years. The usual public apathy resulted.

Clearly marked shelters can be found in all public buildings in the major cities, but not in Salem. Are we that sure that "it can't happen here?"

Once Over

From "The Quiet Man," Mayor Wagner of New York has emerged as a hell-for-leather character out of "Westerns," the fastest draw east of the Pecos and a definite "Have Wallop; Will Travel" personality. His victory over Tammany, public school roof leaks and assorted scandals has lifted him out of role of "Robert the Undisturbed" to that of a figure somewhere between Wyatt Earp, Teddy Roosevelt and Dr. Parkhurst.

Add a few inches in height, a tendency to cry "Bully," a rough rider suit and he might even get the votes of Republicans in the regular election. He may even be ready for a Fiorello LaGuardia role reading the "funnies."

Wagner has become a tiger-eating man. He was raised in tigerhouse but concluded enough was enough and won landslide victory as animal trainer who made the big cat lie down and roll over.

He was never traditional Tammany type but up to this year he had staged no dramatic anti-organization performance. Few people suspected a rough and tumble nature was hidden beneath his "Leave us not get too excited" exterior.

But he switched abruptly from Yorkville, Yale and Gracie Mansion to Dodge City and Boot Hill, impressing the voters by sombrero and spurs touch to "Rough Rider" costume. He seemed the answer to a cry of "Call the cavalry post. We're surrounded by Indians."

He seems to be a mayor in orbit. White House, which brushed him off before the primary, has sent him all its love and Democrats all over the country are con-

Sometimes, to get away from the idea of negotiation, diplomats say they are "exchanging views." This is presumably what Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will be doing during the early days of the United Nations General Assembly — exchanging views.

This, too, is one thing for the Russians, something else for Americans. When a Russian exchanges a view, he tells what he expects the other party to turn over to him without delay, on pain of being rubbed off the face of the earth if he dares to get tough about it.

What the other party may try to say in a spirit of sweet reasonableness is the other part of the exchange. President Kennedy is supposed to have made this shattering discovery at Vienna last spring when he exchanged views with Nikita Khrushchev. It disenchanted him, his intimates say.

THE YOUNG President came home with an impression that the head Russian Communist had told him the dire things that would happen if the United States didn't knuckle under and that this constituted an "exchange of views."

President Kennedy thought it constituted a threat of nuclear war.

Yet if these things are mentioned aloud, there is a plaintive complaint by Russian negotiations and views were mentioned and they are being pushed around by capitalist warmongers and so-and-so imperialists.

What would happen if sometimes instead of pleading for one more go at it, the United States would turn stone deaf when negotiations and views were mentioned and inquire, "what negotiations? What views?"

cluding he has become a top man in the party.

The fear is that Mayor Wagner, naturally an amiable, reserved, peace-loving man may find it hard to give right answer to his own question, "Is this me talking?" He looks 10 feet tall, but will there be shrinkage?

Tammany chiefs are inclined to think, "We will bury you" came from Robert, not Nikita. He appears to have stopped bunting and begun "going for the fences." Using the lively "brawl."

Tragedy In The Congo

By DAVID LAWRENCE

U.N. Fails To Confine Itself To True Function

The tragedy of Dag Hammarskjold's death is not just the loss of a man dedicated to the cause of world peace but the failure of the United Nations to confine itself to its true function instead of meddling in the internal affairs of countries aspiring in their own evolutionary way to achieve independence.

The secretary general, who was killed in an airplane crash, conceived it to be his duty to impose peace in the Congo. He would not have sought to do the same inside the two Germanies or inside Hungary but he saw the United Nations as a kind of superstate and felt that, when the U.N. passed a resolution and sent him to a troubled area, this would be enough to cause the warring factions to lay down their arms.

Noble as was his purpose, the fact remains that the right of a people to rebel against their own rulers and to determine their own destiny has long been imbedded in international law as a basic principle.

THE LONDON TIMES a few days ago put its finger on the root of the difficulty in the Congo.

First it quoted from the resolution of July 14, 1960, when the United Nations authorized the secretary general to consult with the government in the Congo and provide it "with such military assistance as may be necessary until . . . the national security forces may be able, in the opinion of the government, to meet fully their tasks." Then the Times says:

"Katanga bears most of the marks of a state as understood in international law . . . By traditional standards Katanga seemed a viable state when the rest of the Congo was a vacuum, and a legitimate successor state to Belgian sovereignty has not emerged. . . ."

"But if there is danger of an attack by the Leopoldville government of Katanga, it seems odd to attack Katanga to prevent civil war. The argument is, presumably, that for the legal government to march against a dissident province is not civil war, but for the province to resist is . . ."

"The United Nations action in Katanga looks more like the enforcement of a settlement of Congolese political differences than a simple averting of strife."

So it is apparent that the late secretary general interpreted in his own way the meaning of the resolution passed by the U.N. Security Council. His purpose was to bring peace by personal negotiation but he ran up against the bitter opposition of those inside the Congo who simply would not lay down before the Communists.

THE CONGOLESE government is today suspect. Sen. Dodd, D-Conn., in an impressive speech in the Senate last Saturday pointed to the Communist leaders inside the Congo cabinet and warned against the so-called coalition government which the Communists sooner or later are expected to take over.

He gave name after name of Communists who are cabinet ministers in the Congo government today.

Small wonder that in Katanga Province, where the last stand of the anti-Communists is being made in the Congo, they have felt hostile to Secretary General Hammarskjold and the U.N. troops.

Since many millions of dollars of valuable property are involved—the mines in the Congo are fabulously rich—there was bound to be a countermove in which, as reported from Katanga, many "white mercenaries" participated.

Doubtless these are some former Belgian officers who were acquainted intimately with the Congo and who are risking their lives to back President Tshombe of Katanga.

The United Nations didn't concern itself with the theft of property from owners who had developed the mines with borrowed capital. The U.N. seems to be swayed by the emotional outbursts about "colonialism" which unhappily takes no account of the lack of training of half-civilized peoples to set up a government that will protect individual rights.

IT NOW LOOKS as if the U.N. will have to take a second look at recent events.

Is it to be a superstate? If so, the Communists are prepared to take control of the whole U.N. organization. They've for the last few years infiltrated Africa and have managed to corral a lot of the votes of the African states recently admitted to the U.N. which call themselves "non-aligned."

It is a sad period for the Western governments which not only believe in but practice democracy, and this means they respect property rights as well as human rights.

The Congo mess is the result of a failure to adhere to basic principles—to insist that self-government shall not be granted to colonies that are unable to govern themselves, and to make sure that when colonialism is abolished there is a real regard for property as well as human rights.

The Congo isn't ready as yet for self-government, but inasmuch as the Belgian government has withdrawn of its own accord, it is up to the Congolese to fight their own battles.

If the U.N. has any function there, it is to keep meddling foreigners out—including the Communists.

The Mourners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Hard-heads will waste no time mourning Dag Hammarskjold. They won't let his death or the deaths of the dedicated people who died with him in a plane crash in Africa slow up their hate rate.

The crying will be done by us soft-heads. It always is.

We're the only ones who want people like Dag Hammarskjold to succeed. Hard-heads are too cagey and crusty to be fooled by anything as silly as a man who works as hard to keep the peace as they work to break it.

The odds against such a fellow are fantastic. And they should be fantastic, according to the hard-heads, because everybody knows that in this world the peacemaker is a patsy. He never wins.

This is because he doesn't know the score, the hard-heads explain. He hasn't tumbled to the way the world is; he is a dreamer, an idealist, a daisy-picker in a sock-eroo society.

The best he can hope for is that realists who know how things are and intend to keep 'em that way if it kills everybody on earth will be polite to him, the way they are polite to blind people. He cannot hope to convert the realists.

Dag Hammarskjold must have known as much as anybody in his era about how things are and how the realists intend to keep them. It was his business to find out. In his own way, he was more of a realist than the self-proclaimed realists.

He had grasped all there was of reality—the soft-headed part as well as the hard-headed part. Those who had watched him work and knew his thoughts considered him to be the precursor of the ultimate "man of the world," who will have risen above all hate, prejudice, fear and narrow nationalism.

They thought of him as the real realist and of the self-styled realists as fools hastening their own destruction with dirty schemes for destroying others. Perhaps they overdid their appreciation of Dag Hammarskjold, but it's a fact

On the London Docks, some weeks ago, I first heard from British intelligence men, that N. S. Khrushchev plans to stagger the outside world with a series of hit and run mass strikes, riots and factory and transportation sabotage some time in October.

I appeared to have the Limehouse blues as we walked along the wharves and streets where once 30,000 Orientals had supplied the grim grist for a hundred novels.

Now there were some 200 Chinese left. Few of their restaurants remained. Even the famed old police station was new—all the old quarters having been wiped out by Nazi bombs.

My companion grinned. No, there were no longer any opium dens. But if it was intrigue I sought, there was a little building farther up the East End. It was a tiny cog in the Russians' global sabotage machine.

I was startled. For understatement to my friend is what sliced orange is to the duck du jour at Maxims, Paris.

WE WAKED to the building. There, I was told, is where John Williamson operates quietly as a lowly placed dockhand on the vital London waterfront.

John Williamson, of course, once was labor secretary of the Communist party, U.S.A. We deported him to his native England. The international Soviet apparatus then assigned him to creating Communist calls on the London wharves.

Williamson is one of hundreds of disciplined party members awaiting Der Tag—the day when N. S. Khrushchev will give the world 24 hours to get out.

These Communist operatives and "sleepers" have been waiting a long time—in the "vehicle producing industries," the electrical and electronic fields, radar, mining, and shipping. Scores of them are strategically placed shop stewards.

They began infiltrating as early as May 1951. At that time the Soviets' World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) called their key people together from throughout the Western world.

They were then briefed on disrupting the defense and the export industries of the NATO countries. From that session the trained organizers fanned out over Europe—and even back into the United States.

TEN YEARS is a long time. But it is the nature of the Soviet strategists directing these political and industrial guerrillas to think ahead a bit.

Now apparently N. S. Khrushchev is about to swing that industrial sabotage network into mass action, across our free world.

In Germany last month, I learned that the high command of the WFTU was meeting in East Berlin. I put in some calls, which had to go from West Berlin to Frankfurt in free Germany, across to Leipzig, then up to East Berlin, just half a mile from my hotel.

The executive committee of the WFTU was meeting all right. There were general secretary, Louis Saillant, Viktor Grishin, Chairman of the Soviet All-Union Central Council of Grade Unions; Bonoit Franchon, head of the French C.G.T.; Herbert Warnke, of the East German "unions"; Lombardo Toledano, of Mexico City, head of the Confederation of Latin American Workers; Liu Chang-sheng, vice president of the All-China Trade Union Federation, and Odon Alvarez de la Campa, speaking for the Cuba labor federation.

THEY WERE TOLD to return home and spread word the time had come for mass action. The Russians talked to the others for two days. Then they decided to run "an international trade union conference in East Berlin between Sept. 22 and 24."

When word went out, the message included the words, ". . . This will serve the international trade union movement as a beginning for a new, more extensive mass struggle to safeguard peace."

What the Soviet global labor politburo was saying, in effect, was: Come to Berlin for the final briefing and for a call for mass strikes and demonstrations in the streets of the non-Communist countries.

There is before me now a 16-page, 128-point call for action, passed on to all pro-Communist labor chiefs. Point 36 says: "In their struggle to safeguard peace, the workers are successfully developing their action and are using all forms of mass action in close liaison with other sections of the people."

The document is filled with directives to end production of weapons and their transportation. If my friends on the London docks are correct, we'll soon see unofficial strikes, transport sabotage and wild political demonstrations across the lands of the free.

My friends' prediction is that this will coincide with Khrushchev's final push on the Berlin holocaust.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

problem children. When you gain some insight into Linda's emotional needs you may then reconsider.

Tight Tipsters

Dear Ann: I work in one of the country's finest hotels. Something has been bugging me and maybe you can come up with the answer.

Why do certain people think it's all right to throw away thousands of dollars on the crap tables, stay in the fanciest suites, eat and drink like royalty, and then, when it comes to tipping, cheap out like nobody's business?

Some big shots give a bellhop four bits for handling two 60-pound bags and then flip the doorman two bits for parking a Lincoln Continental.

In the dining room their colors really show up. They are all the time trying to pick a fight with the waiter so they can use it as an excuse to leave a small tip—or none at all. What makes rich people so crummy?—LAS VEGAS.

Dear Vegas: Rich people aren't any crummier than anyone else. Generosity, stinginess, kindness and meanness are all human qualities which can show up in any person, regardless of the size of the bankroll.

To label all people of means as cheap and abusive is an unfair and inaccurate generalization.

Uniform For Maid

Dear Ann: The woman who comes to clean for me three days a week is about 40 years of age. She has a nice figure but she has a homely face.

Yesterday she showed up in a two-piece strapless outfit, midriff style. When she knelt over to wipe up the kitchen floor she almost lost the top of her outfit. My husband thought this was very amusing.

I have lived in this country only two years. Is it proper to tell a woman who comes to clean what kind of dresses to wear? My husband says no. What do you say?—E.K.

Dear E.K.: Not only is it proper but in this case it seems urgent. Tell her a simple house-dress will do. Some cleaning women wear uniforms. It might be nice if you bought her one.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Seven years ago I married a man whose wife died in childbirth. His little girl, Linda, was 2 years old at the time of our marriage. Tom's sister took the baby when she was a week old. He pays $50 a month for her keep.

Now Tom and I have two daughters of our own. When Linda comes to visit us weekends it's an endless battle. She's sloppy, ill-mannered and tries to boss my two. The girl is very much overweight and sneaks candy and pop behind my back.

Linda says she wants to live with us all the time because our house is prettier than her aunt's, there are better things to eat here and more to do in our neighborhood. I'm afraid she'll cause nothing but trouble in our family and I don't want her. Tom says it's up to me.

Of course I feel guilty but what shall I do?—TINA.

Dear Tina: This unfortunate child needs love and understanding. She would get neither in your home.

You are not sufficiently wise nor mature to accept the challenge of coping with Linda. I suggest that you make an appointment with an expert on

Steubenville Bridge Sites Studied by Highway Groups

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Three proposed bridge locations for linking Steubenville and West Virginia across the Ohio River are under study by highway officials from both states.

They disclosed Wednesday that one possible site could be in near-by Allikanna, but did not reveal the other two. The present bridge across the Ohio at Steubenville, carrying U.S. 22 and Ohio 43, is a bottleneck for traffic in this area.

Some 60 representatives of the six-county Upper Ohio Valley Development Council Wednesday heard highway officials from Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania discuss plans for throughways in the area.

The council members were told: 1. Construction plans from Cambridge to Steubenville have been received.

2. Approximately 11 miles of the route under construction in Harrison County and bypassing Cadiz and Hopedale should be open to traffic by the end of October.

3. Certain sections of U.S. 22 may be completed sooner if the money is available.

William P. McKenna, Ohio Division 11 engineer, said the target date for opening the Ashtabula-to-East Liverpool freeway is Oct. 31, liminary plans for construction a stretch of Route 2 extending two miles south of Follansbee in Brooke County, W. Va., to south of New Cumberland in Hancock County.

Episcopal Church Approves Merger

DETROIT (AP)— After putting new steam into a move for Christian reunion, the legislative machinery of the Episcopal Church today ground to a halt—for a look at some other kinds of machinery.

Nearly 1,000 representatives of the church from across the country—bishops, pastors, theologians and lay delegates—headed into the whirling labyrinth of Detroit's industrial empire.

Their purpose: To hunt clues on how the church can break out of its parochial walls into the mass — organized, mechanized world that has engulfed much of modern American life.

The tour came after the House of Bishops Wednesday swept through a dramatic measure aimed at uniting a wide range of American churches, including at least four other denominations.

It calls for talks with United Presbyterians, Methodists, the United Church of Christ, the Polish National Catholic Church and possibly others to "explore the possibilities of an eventual united church, truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical."

Altogether, the denominations have about 20 million members.

INJURIES ARE FATAL

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Injuries suffered Sept. 14 were fatal Wednesday to Edwin F. McWilliams, 71, of Danville, Ill.

He was injured when his car collided with a tractor-trailer truck at the intersection of U.S. 40 and Ohio 311 north of nearby Brookville.

SHOWERS NOT REQUIRED

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Boys at the city's four high schools still are required to take showers after their gym classes, but the girls can make up their own minds on the matter.

Dr. Sanford F. Jameson, schools superintendent, said Wednesday he lifted the regulation for girls because of numerous complaints from parents.

Important part of Cleveland's Western Reserve University in 1876 was the sport of "beanbags."

No conditional bids will be received. The approving opinion of Peck, Shaffer & Williams, bond attorneys of Cincinnati, Ohio, will be furnished to the successful bidder at his expense in the amount of $250. The village will pay for the printing of the bonds.

The bonds will be delivered under the conditions herein specified at Washingtonville, Ohio. Delivery at any other place shall be by agreement with the purchaser and at his expense.

The bids will be considered and acted upon at a meeting of council on October 16, 1961, or at any adjournment thereof within three (3) days. Mr. and Mrs. James E. Aiken

James Aiken and Bride Residing At Montgomery

Montgomery, Ala., where the bridegroom is attending Squadron Officers School, is the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Ellsworth Aiken, who were married Sept. 1 in the First Methodist Church in Great Falls, Mont.

Rev. Vernon Hanks officiated at the double ring ceremony which united in marriage Miss Ardith Rae Twaddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Twaddle of Langdon, N. D., and Mr. Aiken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aiken of Leetonia.

White carnations graced the altar before which Mr. Twaddle gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's formal wedding gown of Italian silk over satin and ruffled tulle was fashioned with long sleeves and a circular skirt. Venetian lace accented the half-moon neckline and the skirt. Her waist-length veil of imported illusion was caught to an Elizabethan crown of Italian crystal beads. She carried a white orchid on a white prayer book which had belonged to her paternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Margaret Witte.

In keeping with an all-white wedding theme, the matron of honor, Mrs. L. J. Balek, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. L. J. Torkelson, another sister, and Andree Deligdisch were attired in white chiffon over taffeta, with white picture hats. They carried colonial bouquets of white roses, and wore single strands of pearls, gifts of the bride.

Kitti Torkelson, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and appeared in a white organza dress. James Arthur Balek, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Edward B. Cogswell Jr. was Mr. Aiken's best man. Ushers were Howard J. Bear and Roy Souder Jr.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Twaddle chose a light blue lace sheath with black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The reception was held in the church parlor.

The bride received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of North Dakota and was employed as a social worker for Cascade County Department of Public Welfare in Great Falls, Mont. A graduate of DePauw University, Mr. Aiken did post-graduate work at Ohio State and Montana State Universities. He is a jet pilot on active duty with the Montana Air National Guard and is attending school in Montgomery, Ala.

For traveling to Montgomery, the bride wore a beige wool knit suit with beige and brown accessories. They will reside at 611 So. Court, Montgomery.

Fallout

Plans are in progress to have a station in all states.

2. Six of the approximately 60 stations maintained by the service's radiological health division to take samples of milk to allow analysis of radioactive content have been alerted to take samples every day, instead of monthly as all stations did previously.

The stations so alerted are at Atlanta; Jackson, Miss.; Charlotte, S.C.; Tampa, Fla.; New Orleans and St. Louis. And analyses will be done for these stations by the health service's laboratory at Montgomery, Ala.

3. Ten of the stations in the nationwide network of fallout detection stations are being equipped with special apparatus designed to get better estimates than heretofore of the actual amount of radioactive iodine-131 which may be present in air samples.

The stations getting the new "iodine samplers," reported Ernest Anderson, chief of technical operation, are located at Seattle, Wash.; Berkeley, Calif. Phoenix, Ariz.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Boise, Idaho; Helena, Mont.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Madison, Wis. Anchorage, Alaska and Rockville, Md.

The other two Buckeye State firms mentioned were among five companies listed as having submitted identical bids in several instances on large lots of suspension insulators. They include the Ohio Brass Co. of Mansfield and the H. K. Porter Co., Inc., of Lisbon.

Steel Mill

mechanical and electrical maintenance force, Richard F. Armistage, Republic's Warren District manager, said.

Provision has been made for later addition of a third slab-heating furnace and a third coil-changes which would boost capacity 50 per cent to 210,000 tons a month, with very little additional work force.

In June 1959, first steps were taken to build the mill on a swampy area of Republic property. Ten months ago, retraining for the crew of the new mill was started. Last May, limited production was begun of carbon, silicon, alloy and stainless steels.

From 100 applicants already in Republic's employ, 30 mechanics and 12 electricians were selected on the basis of aptitude and learning ability, Armistage said. The remainder were assigned elsewhere in the huge Warren works, only one rejecting reassignment.

Patron said employees and the United Steelworkers gave the company "whole-hearted cooperation" in the change over to the automated mill.

"Without the new mill the continued employment of a large number of our Warren employees stood in dire jeopardy," Patton said. He pointed out that business eventually would be lost to competitors, domestic and foreign, with more efficient machinery and lower labor costs.

Republic officials predict an improved accuracy of strips rolled in the new plant would bring an increase in Republic's business among about 10 per cent of those consumers who must have near-absolute uniformity of gauge.

Patron said the new mill's "tolerance control capabilities represent new dimensions for hot mill flat rolling." Hydraulic controls—including a unique automatic screw-down control on two finishing mills rollers—make this possible, engineers said. The controls correct variations in strip thickness in as little as three one-hundredths of a second.

Republic officials said the Warren mill will make possible increased output at Massillon's recently modernized stainless steel plant. They estimated 15,000 tons of monthly output here would be in stainless steel shipped to Massillon for further processing.

Peak production at the Warren mill would outrun the locally produced slab supply, the engineer said, and require shipments from Republic's basic steel plants in Cleveland and Youngstown.

Rusk-Gromyko Talks

The Berlin crisis comes up in private talks between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. They are trying to pave the way to East-West negotiations, but Rusk wants to find out first whether the Soviets are willing to talk about mutual concessions or simply want to force Western approval of their policies for Germany.

Complete failure was reported Wednesday by the two powers in their attempts to reopen negotiations on disarmament. But they did announce a statement of principles for future negotiations which will open the way for what promises to be a detailed disarmament debate.

two hours later. Reuther announced that the board would not authorize a general strike against GM. He said the advisory council's action was an "action by members demonstrating the bitterness of some toward some local practices. This was a culmination of resentment over local problems and the locals' way of protesting."

He said a general strike "cannot in good conscience be justified, therefore it will not be authorized." He added: "All General Motors employees in plants where local issues are resolved are instructed to stay on the job." GM officials declined comment on the union's actions.

Wednesday night's flurry followed a day in which GM and the UAW apparently reached agreement on national contract demands and made substantial progress on the various local demands.

Negotiations at GM started June 28 and the strikes began a week ago Monday after the union authorized walkouts at plants not having agreement on local demands. More than 250,000 of GM's 350,000 hourly workers were idled at the peak of the strike that paralyzed GM production.

than eight hours, and the Weather Bureau predicted three to four inches.

The hurricane, described by the Weather Bureau as "capricious and dangerous," speeded up early today and its forward advance, previously about 15 miles an hour, increased to 18. This led the Weather Bureau to predict the center would cross the southern coast of Massachusetts at 9 a.m. At 5 a.m. the center was located by radar 50 miles south of Block Island, R.I.

There were as yet no reports of loss of life and no known heavy damage although Rhode Island was just beginning to feel the hurricane's effects.

Hurricane warnings flew from Long Island to Eastport, Maine. A hurricane watch was in effect over western Long Island and Connecticut.

The Weather Bureau estimated winds in the center of the hurricane at 115 m.p.h. with hurricane force winds—75 m.p.h. and higher—extending 100 miles to the east and 75 miles to the west. Gale winds extended outward 350 miles to the east and 200 miles to the west.

The Weather Bureau predicted the size and intensity of the storm would remain about the same for the next 18 to 24 hours.

Up and down the coast, small boats by the hundreds had been hauled ashore or packed into protected harbors. Destroyers moved to safe moorings, military planes flew to inland fields, emergency vehicles scattered to danger spots. Disaster agencies — Red Cross, Civil Defense, police, National Guard—all were alerted.

On Cape Cod, President Kennedy's two children—Caroline, 3½, and John, almost 10 months—spent the night with six cousins at the big home of their grandfather, former ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy. The house at Hyannis Port faces Nantucket Sound but is on high ground.

Early plans to evacuate Caroline and John and their cousins to Otis Air Force Base at Falmouth, Mass., were given up. The cousins include two children of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith, three of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawford and one of Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Ted) Kennedy.

Lisbon Kindergarten Classes To Be Moved

LISBON — Lisbon kindergarten classes will be held in the Methodist Church starting Monday, School Supt. Russell Armitage said today.

The change was approved by the Board of Education because of the crowded conditions at McKinley School where two second grade classes are being held in the gym. One of the second grade classes will be moved to the former kindergarten room Monday.

The Lisbon school district will vote Nov. 7 on a levy to finance the addition of 14 rooms at McKinley School. The issue failed by a small margin in the May primaries.

Collapse of Disarmament Talks Revives Old Questions

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Optimism, that little fire burning brightly in the dark woods of the world, got rained on again. So those who insist man is too intelligent to blow himself to blazes must still wait and see.

Talks between the United States and Russia, not only on banning nuclear tests but on disarmament in general, have broken down. On Sept. 9 the two powers recessed their conversations on banning nuclear tests after 340 sessions in 34 months. It was about time, since the Soviets, after a layoff of almost three years, had already resumed testing.

Premier Khrushchev brushed aside such talks anyway. He said there would be no more moratoriums on nuclear tests until there was agreement on general disarmament.

For the inhabitants of the sunny side of the street this was indeed gloomy news but not altogether black because ever since midsummer the United States and Russia had been holding separate talks on disarmament.

Rather, the two sides—in sessions in Washington, Moscow and New York—had not actually been discussing disarmament but only how to set up full-scale discussion on disarmament.

Then Wednesday this collapsed too. The United States and Russia reported to the United Nations the complete failure of their talks on how to start talking about disarmament in general.

Since the end of the war in 1945 the two countries have had perhaps thousands of conversations on disarmament, just the two of them alone or in various international groups in various places. The result is still nothing.

This naturally raises some questions which, while old, are still unanswered:

1. Does Russia really want disarmament or is it stalling until it acquires such a frightening arsenal of weapons that it can terrorize the world into submission?

PLYMOUTH HAS NEW LOOK — The Fury 2-door hardtop is one of 23 new models which Plymouth introduces to the low-priced field for 1962. All Plymouth models have a new look which sets them apart among standard size cars. There is a completely new feel in ride, handling and performance, with valuable savings in fuel economy. There are three series, Savoy, Belvedere and Fury. The engine line-up includes the 225 cu. in. 30-D Economy Six, the 318 cu. in. Fury V-800, both Mobilgas Economy Run champions, and the 361 cu. in. high-performance Golden Commando V-8.

2. Is it to the best interest of the United States ever to disarm so long as Russia and Red China, with their endless resources of manpower, persist in their campaign to own the earth?

3. Is it possible for a number of nations to have the most modern weapons—the United States, Russia, Britain and France have them and Red China will soon—without getting into war with them, by design or accident?

Only one thing is certain: Until there is a disarmament agreement, and no one is offering odds there will be, the United States and Russia will keep on trying to outdo each other in thinking up ever more nightmare weapons.

Quakers Set For Gridiron Clash With Ravenna Friday

Both Teams Enter Unbeaten; Morton Juggles Local Lineup

By CARL NADRASY
News Sports Editor

Two unbeaten football teams will be attempting to keep their records unblemished Friday night as the Ravenna Ravens move in to Reilly Stadium to tangle with the Salem Quakers.

The Ravens, who will be sporting a 1-0 mark as a result of their 22-18 win over West Geauga in the home opener last week, will be trying to keep the string going and to knock off the high-flying locals, who possess a two-game victory skein with triumphs of 16-0 over Struthers and 28-14 over Youngstown North behind them.

Friday night's game will be a continuation of one of the oldest football rivalries in this area. The Portage County gridders have played the Quakers in football a total of 32 times, with the first game as far back as 1903 when the locals were soundly beaten 62-0.

The over-all record over the years stands at 20 wins for Salem, nine for Ravenna and three ties. The teams have played each other on the gridiron every year since 1937.

Coach Blaine Morton's local charges will have added incentive to shut-out the Ravens Friday night, since this feat has been accomplished by Quaker teams over the last three years, 34-0, 48-0 and 43-0 respectively.

COACH HARRY GILCREST will again be at the helm of the Ravenna gridders. Gilcrest returns to head the Ravens after sitting out eight seasons as a coach. He had been head football mentor at Ravenna for 11 years before dropping from the coaching ranks in 1953.

Ravenna grid fans are looking to the elder Gilcrest to bring the Ravens back to the football power they were back in his earlier years as coach. Over the past three seasons the Ravens, under the coaching of Randy Buchman, had recorded 6-2, 1-8 and 1-8 marks respectively, and the local Ravenna supporters seek an improvement this year.

However, Coach Gilcrest is faced with a rebuilding year and the prospects for a strong season are bleak. Among the starting eleven for the Ravens Friday night will be two sophomores and four juniors. There are only six lettermen on the roster.

Working from a single wing offense with unbalanced lines to either the right or left, the Ravens will have Mike Boggs, 170-pound junior, and Jim Drumheller, 165-pound senior, at the starting end positions. Both stand 5-10.

AT THE TACKLES will be Doug Cowell, 250-pound senior letterman, and Tom Visher, 165-pound non-letterman senior.

Jim Meduri, a 175-pound junior letterman, will be at one of the guard posts, while junior Richard Gilliland, a 170-pound non-letterman, will hold down the other. Sophomore John Rude, a 165-pound non-letterman, will be at center.

Blocking back in the Ravens' single wing attack will be non-letterman Eddie Kunar, a 160-pound junior.

At the wingback position for Ravenna will be either 140-pound senior Charles Solberger or Ralph Sanders, a 150-pound sophomore speedster.

Sanders, even though he may not start due to his inexperience, will probably play most of the offensive game for the Ravens and be the biggest threat for the Quakers to stop.

THE FLEET-FOOTED sophomore proved to be almost all the Ravens' offense last week as he scored on 66 and 68-yard pass plays and had a 43-yard run for a touchdown called back on a penalty. According to scouting reports, Sanders is one of the fastest backs in the district and a very deceptive runner.

The Ravens' tailback will be 160-pound senior Terry Ryan. At fullback it will be a tossup between seniors Dave Marsh, 170-pound non-letterman, and Jack VanCampen, a 180-pound letterman.

According to reports, Coach Gilcrest has made up to six changes on his defensive unit in an attempt to plug up holes that appeared weak in the Geauga game.

This also seems to be the strategy of Salem Coach Blaine Morton.

Morton will be replacing both his ends this week to find a combination that will display better defensive work in turning in the opposition's end plays and wide sweeping running attack.

THE DEFENSIVE end positions seemed to be the sore spots in the Quakers' alignment against Youngstown North. In the Bulldogs two last period touchdown drives, they ran the local ends consistently for wholesale yardage.

Morton realizes that with the Ravenna single wing offense his ends will be getting a more severe test this week. He has had his charges working all week on a defense to combat the unorthodox single wing attack.

Morton will be replacing ends George Esterly and John Panzetti with 148-pound junior Bob Hasson and 164-pound senior Bob Steele. Steele has started in right guard slot in the previous games, but is being moved to end to add strength to the extreme right side of the Quaker line.

Into Steele's vacant right guard position will be 160-pound senior Bob Oswald, who has alternated in the position with Steele in the first two games.

The remaining Quaker lineup will stay the same. That means seniors Ty Enders and Butch Crawford will be at the tackles, senior Roger DeCrow at the other guard, and junior George Johnson at center.

In the backfield will be junior Bill Beery at quarter, seniors Dave Edling and Jim Gibb at the halves, and senior Fred Kaiser at full.

Going into the fray, the Quakers will be outweighed 173½ to 172 per man among the starting eleven. The Ravenna line, however, will hold a 180 to 174-pound edge per man, with the Salem back outweighing their opponents 168½ to 162½ per man.

My predicted score for the game: Salem 31-Ravenna 13.

COACH HARRY GILCREST will again be at the helm of the Ravenna gridders. Gilcrest returns to head the Ravens after sitting out eight seasons as a coach. He had been head football mentor at Ravenna for 11 years before dropping from the coaching ranks in 1953.

Ravenna grid fans are looking to the elder Gilcrest to bring the Ravens back to the football power they were back in his earlier years as coach. Sanders, even though he may not start due to his inexperience, will probably play most of the offensive game for the Ravens and be the biggest threat for the Quakers to stop.

THE FLEET-FOOTED sophomore proved to be almost all the Ravens' offense last week as he scored on 66 and 68-yard pass plays and had a 43-yard run for a touchdown called back on a penalty. According to scouting reports, Sanders is one of the fastest backs in the district and a very deceptive runner.

The Ravens' tailback will be 160-pound senior Terry Ryan. At fullback it will be a tossup between seniors Dave Marsh, 170-pound non-letterman, and Jack VanCampen, a 180-pound letterman.

According to reports, Coach Gilcrest has made up to six changes on his defensive unit in an attempt to plug up holes that appeared weak in the Geauga game.

This also seems to be the strategy of Salem Coach Blaine Morton.

Morton will be replacing both his ends this week to find a combination that will display better defensive work in turning in the opposition's end plays and wide sweeping running attack.

THE DEFENSIVE end positions seemed to be the sore spots in the Quakers' alignment against Youngstown North. In the Bulldogs two last period touchdown drives, they ran the local ends consistently for wholesale yardage.

Morton realizes that with the Ravenna single wing offense his ends will be getting a more severe test this week. He has had his charges working all week on a defense to combat the unorthodox single wing attack.

Morton will be replacing ends George Esterly and John Panzetti with 148-pound junior Bob Hasson and 164-pound senior Bob Steele. Steele has started in right guard slot in the previous games, but is being moved to end to add strength to the extreme right side of the Quaker line.

Into Steele's vacant right guard position will be 160-pound senior Bob Oswald, who has alternated in the position with Steele in the first two games.

The remaining Quaker lineup will stay the same. That means seniors Ty Enders and Butch Crawford will be at the tackles, senior Roger DeCrow at the other guard, and junior George Johnson at center.

In the backfield will be junior Bill Beery at quarter, seniors Dave Edling and Jim Gibb at the halves, and senior Fred Kaiser at full.

Going into the fray, the Quakers will be outweighed 173½ to 172 per man among the starting eleven. The Ravenna line, however, will hold a 180 to 174-pound edge per man, with the Salem back outweighing their opponents 168½ to 162½ per man.

My predicted score for the game: Salem 31-Ravenna 13.

COACH HARRY GILCREST will again be at the helm of the Ravenna gridders. Gilcrest returns to head the Ravens after sitting out eight seasons as a coach. He had been head football mentor at Ravenna for 11 years before dropping from the coaching ranks in 1953.

Ravenna grid fans are looking to the elder Gilcrest to bring the Ravens back to the football power they were back in his earlier years as coach. Over the past three seasons the Ravens, under the coaching of Randy Buchman, had recorded 6-2, 1-8 and 1-8 marks respectively, and the local Ravenna supporters seek an improvement this year.

However, Coach Gilcrest is faced with a rebuilding year and the prospects for a strong season are bleak. Among the starting eleven for the Ravens Friday night will be two sophomores and four juniors. There are only six lettermen on the roster.

Working from a single wing offense with unbalanced lines to either the right or left, the Ravens will have Mike Boggs, 170-pound junior, and Jim Drumheller, 165-pound senior, at the starting end positions. Both stand 5-10.

AT THE TACKLES will be Doug Cowell, 250-pound senior letterman, and Tom Visher, 165-pound non-letterman senior.

Jim Meduri, a 175-pound junior letterman, will be at one of the guard posts, while junior Richard Gilliland, a 170-pound non-letterman, will hold down the other. Sophomore John Rude, a 165-pound non-letterman, will be at center.

Blocking back in the Ravens' single wing attack will be non-letterman Eddie Kunar, a 160-pound junior.

Saturday Grid Games Pit Top College QB's

By The Associated Press

Four of the country's top college quarterbacks will pair off Saturday when the schedule is loaded with intersectional games.

There should be quite a dogfight at Berkeley, Calif., where Cal's Golden Bears, led by Randy Gold, or perhaps fast-improving Larry Balliett meet the Mike Cotten-led Texas team. Then in Laramie, Wyo., North Carolina State, with Roman Gabriel showing the way, plays Wyoming, the top Skyline team led by Chuck Lamsom.

It is hard to come up with four better quarterbacks in any section, and with the exception of Gabriel, three are equally adept at running as well as passing.

Gabriel has been accorded reams of advance publicity as the nation's No. 1 college quarterback and because of this, N. State has been given the nod as the team to beat in the Atlantic coast Conference.

Lamsom, a transfer student from Iowa State, led the Cowboys in total offense and passing, and was second in rushing last year.

Marv Levy, al's coach, isn't yet satisfied that Gold is his best quarterback. Last year, he was third in total offense in the Big Five and ranked second in passing with 696 yards, completing 65 of 117 attempts. Balliett has done quite a bit with al's first unit.

Cotton carried the ball 81 times in Coach Darrell Royal's split-T offense last year, and picked up 135 yards. He was the leading scorer with 30 points on five TDs, and 539 yards in passing.

RAIN HALTS SOFTBALL

The Slo-Pitch softball game and the Invitational Softball Tournament games scheduled for last night at Kelley Park were postponed due to rain and have been rescheduled.

The Slo-Pitch game will be played at 8 p.m. Monday and the Invitational game will be added to Saturday's schedule.

By The Associated Press

Those amazing Cincinnati Reds, a questionable product in the National League race when the season began, have gone methodically about the business of trying to nail down their first pennant in 21 years with a potent patent on winning one-run games.

The Reds did it again Wednesday night, edging the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 on Wally Post's two-run homer in the eighth inning for their eighth victory in the last nine games and a 34-14 won-lost record in one-run games.

The victory went to right-hander Joey Jay (21-8), the only NL pitcher with 20 wins, and reduced the Reds' magic pennant-clinching number to four over second-place Los Angeles. The Dodgers also won by a single run, nipping Chicago 3-2 in 13 innings.

Milwaukee beat San Francisco 7-4 and Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 6-1 in other games.

In the American League, Roger Maris connected for his 59th homer but failed to get the 60th that would have tied Babe Ruth's 1927 record while the New York Yankees clinched their 26th American League pennant by whipping the Baltimore Orioles 4-2.

Detroit bopped Los Angeles 6-3, Chicago beat Boston 3-1, and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 4-2. Minnesota-Washington was postponed by rain.

Post's 20th homer came with Vada Pinson on base via a walk and brought the Reds from behind to beat the Pirates and reliever Elroy Face (6-11).

The Dodgers, beaten two nights in a row by the seventh-place Cubs, remained five games behind the first-place Reds by pushing the winning run across in the 13th when Wally Moon singled, reached second on a ground out, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Ron Fairly's two out single.

Yank Slugger Belts No. 59

Maris' Assault on Babe's Homer Mark Falls 1 Short

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Roger Maris' relentless assault on Babe Ruth's hallowed home run record ended in defeat Wednesday night, but in no way could it be interpreted as a failure.

The left-handed slugger, battling against almost impossible odds, missed matching the immortal Bambino's 60 homers in a 154-game season by the narrowest of margins—just one.

Trailing by two home runs with just one more game remaining, playing in a park which had throttled him in all 26 previous efforts, Maris not only walloped his 59th home run of the season but came breathlessly close to smashing two more.

Greenberg Had 58

Had the two he barely missed been fair instead of foul, the crew-cut blond from Raytown, Mo., would have achieved the feat of the century.

Only two others had seriously threatened that mark — Jimmy Foxx with 58 in 1932 and Hank Greenberg with 58 in 1938.

The crowd of 21,032, naturally devoted to Ruth, a native Baltimorean, gave Maris, 27, a standing ovation after he had sent a dribbler down the first base line on a checked swing in his last try.

"I tried," he said later. "I didn't quite make it, but I tried." And how Maris tried.

In the first inning, facing Milt Pappas, Baltimore's ace right-hander, he drove a screaming liner to Earl Robinson in deep right.

Hit No. 59 Off Pappas

In the third inning, with Pappas still on the mound, he smashed a 2-1 pitch, a sort of high liner, into the right field bleachers, about 390 feet from the plate. The homer electrified the audience, which realized he still had at least two more cracks at homer No. 60.

Dick Hall, another right-hander, was on the mound when Maris came to bat in the fourth. With an 0-2 count, Roger whacked a liner which landed in the stands, about eight feet foul and some 15 feet short of the right field bleachers. Many in the crowd, on his side by that time, groaned.

Again in the seventh, Maris flirted with fame when he hit a long drive deep into the right field bleachers. This one was about 20 to 25 feet foul.

Didn't Get Good Swing

Now it was the ninth. There were two out. Hoyt Wilhelm was on the mound.

"Just one good swing," Maris muttered grimly to himself. "Just one good swing. That's all I want."

He never got that "one good swing."

The ball struck the bat and dribbled down the first base line. Wilhelm fielded the ball himself and tagged the dejected Maris just off first base.

"I'm glad it's over," Maris said later. "It's a great relief. But I'm disappointed it had to end this way. If I wasn't going to make it, at least I wanted to go down swinging. The way it turned out, I didn't get one good swing."

Tribe's Last Home Game

Slim Crowd Sees Indians Lose 4-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — A home run by Bobby Del Greco, Kansas City centerfielder, turned the Cleveland Indians' last home appearance of the season a losing one.

A crowd of only 2,632 saw Del Greco hit a two-run homer in the ninth to break a 2-2 tie and hand the Indians a 4-2 defeat Wednesday night.

Don Dillard had tied the game in the eighth inning with his seventh homer of the year. But Del Greco connected off Bob Allen, who had relieved starter Barry Latman in the eighth. Latman, seeking his 14th victory, gave up a run in the third when Dick Howser singled, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single.

The Indians tied it at 1-1 in the fourth. Woodie Held walked and John Romano singled. Del Greco tried to cut down Held at third, but his throw got by Wayne ausey and Held scored.

The A's went ahead 2-1 in the seventh on two hits, one of them a run-scoring single by pitcher Norman Bass. Dillard's homer in the eighth went for naught when Del Greco homered to hand Allen his second loss against three victories.

The Indians meet the A's again in the first of a three-game series at Kansas City Friday night.

Fan Holds On To Ball Maris Hit for No. 59

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 32-year-old Baltimorean made a head-long dive in Memorial Stadium Wednesday night for a baseball that may become a collector's item. Or just a conversation piece.

Bob Reitz, an unemployed machine operator, outthrusted dozens of other right-field bleacher fans to nab the ball which Roger Maris of the New York Yankees slugged into the seats for his 59th homer of the season.

The homer came in New York's 154th team decision of the season—the limit which Commissioner Ford Frick imposed on anyone taking a crack at Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 set in 1927. But the Yanks have eight more games to play under the expanded 162-game schedule this season, and if Maris hits another homer the market value of the ball owned by Reitz will diminish considerably.

Soon after running down the elusive ball, Reitz indicated he would be happy to exchange the ball for two World Series tickets and an all-expenses-paid trip to all series games in New York.

Maris, who met Reitz under the stands between innings, nixed the offer personally, and the fan returned to his seat.

"Maris shook my hand and posed for pictures," Reitz told newsmen. "Then he called for someone in the clubhouse to bring out another ball. I knew what he wanted to do—autograph another one in exchange for mine. I said 'never mind' and kept the ball."

Virus Infections Worry OSU Coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The recent wave of virus infections to sweep over Ohio State's training football team is beginning to get to Coach Woody Hayes.

Following Wednesday's workout, Hayes said, "I'm beginning to get a little concerned. I'm just thankful this (the virus attack) didn't happen next week instead of this week."

Although more than a dozen players are out of action—most of them recovering from the virus—Hayes believes all will be ready for the Bucks opener Sept. 30 against Texas Christian.

Joining the sick list Wednesday was All-America fullback Bob Ferguson who suffered a minor injury.

Babe Ruth still holds the record for hitting 300 or better in most World Series — six.

Salem Frosh Win 1st Game In Four Years

The Salem High School freshman football squad won its first game in four seasons by blanking the East Palestine Bulldogs 6-0 at Reilly Stadium Wednesday night.

The game was a defensive battle all the way with the lone tally coming late in the third period on a six-yard pass play from Tod Chappell to Cody Goad.

New head coach Bing Newton was lavish with praise for his gridgers, especially for their fine defensive play.

Ends Mike Swetye and Ron Hofmann did an outstanding job of halting East Palestine end sweeps. Other outstanding Salem performers were linebacker Chuck Joseph, guard Richard Klepper and back Dick Ehrhart.

With the possible exception of Rich Kreitling, all the Browns probably will be ready for Sunday's contest. Kreitling, bothered by bruised ribs, did some running Wednesday but no heavy work.

Also on the sidelines were Paul Wiggins and Bernie Parrish. Wiggins has gashes on his hand and wrist and Parrish has a pulled leg muscle. Both should be ready, however.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS LIDE

By request of Salem sportsmen, I am stating my personal views regarding the possibility of the Salem reservoir being opened for fishing.

What sort of a plan is being considered by city authorities to provide fishing is unknown to me. From what I am able to learn, local fishermen want a controlled plan put into effect on a fee basis with a small charge for daily fishing along with an individual yearly fee plus a family fee with two different rates, one for Salem residents and another slightly higher for non-residents.

It also was suggested that the revenue received should be earmarked to buy additional fish in order to keep the reservoir well stocked.

SEVERAL QUESTIONS arise regarding fish stocking in a body of water. Who will keep a check on the fishermen? How will each fisherman's luck catch be known and who's going to keep an accurate record of fish stocked vs fish caught?

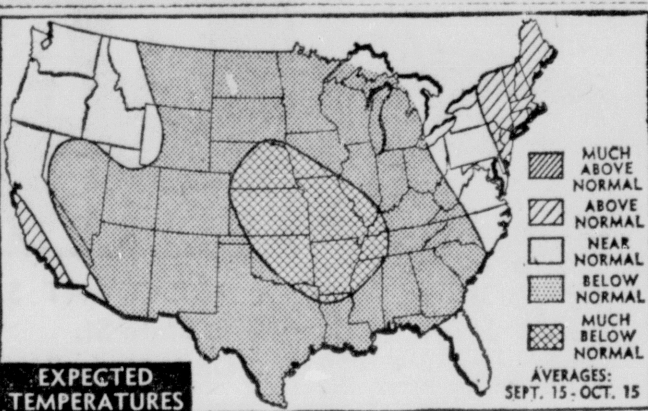

To keep an accurate record each fisherman could be required to turn in the number of fish he caught before he leaves.

On state owned and state controlled fishing waters the fish management section has set up certain days when the field men make what is known as a creel census by individual contact. A record is made of the number of fishermen fishing, total hours fished, what percentage caught fish and fishermen observed but not contacted. Each species of fish caught is listed in numbers and the average length of each fish recorded.

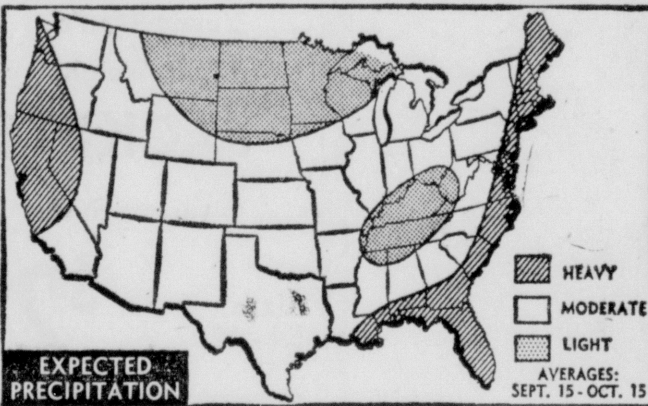

The results of a creel census will show somewhat the trends of fishing, if it has improved over a period of 10 years or if fishing has declined over that period of time.

WITH 25 YEARS of practical experience in fish management, I have been able to observe corrective stocking, promiscuous stocking and pressure stocking, in

Weather Outlook for 30 Days

Temperatures for the next 30 days, mostly below normal, radiate outward from a cold core in center of the nation.

Near normal, or moderate, amounts of precipitation may be expected for most of the country, the Weather Bureau says.

which a group of individuals contact their state and national representatives and secure fish from one source or another and release them in various waters over the state.

That brings up another question, what happens to the fish stocked if they aren't caught by the fishermen? If 2,000 trout were released in a body of water not actually suited for trout and 50 are caught by the fishermen, what happens to the other 1,950 trout?

The logical conclusion would be that they die and certainly trout will not reproduce in a lake with a mud bottom. Trout are very expensive fish if cold cash is laid on the line to buy them and there is no reason to assume that there is such a thing as a constant supply of trout from the federal government that can be had at any time merely by a simple request.

Even if there were a constant source of supply, would constant stocking provide good fishing? What happens to the uncaught fish? That goes for bass, walleyes, northern pike, eastern chain pickerel, channel catfish, or any other kind of predaceous fish.

Once a lake is well-stocked and the fish go uncaught, which I have seen happen so many times, is it wise to keep up the stocking?

A BODY OF WATER will support only so many fish in pounds if they are all lunkers or if the poundage is made up of a small, stunted, undernourished fish, crowded in a small body of water with limited movements.

This question was asked at City Council meeting last Tuesday: "If the reservoir is opened for fishing, how long would fishing be good?" I don't think anyone could answer that question accurately.

It might be one day, three days, one month or perhaps a few years. There's no such thing as "book learning" on this subject and no slide rules or computing machines to provide the answer. My guess would be, not very long, and buy and dump would not help more than a limited degree.

Since I was asked to express my personal views, may I say that fishing at the reservoir would not pose a health hazard. It is being done and has been done for years with many municipal reservoirs open for fishing, according to agreement in the form of an easement with the city and the Ohio Division of Wildlife. These easements take nothing from any municipality in regard to the intent and purpose for which the water was impounded in the first place.

THE IRONY of it all as I see it, about six years ago I met Mayor Dean Cranmer and discussed the possibility of public fishing in the Salem reservoir. May I say that Mayor Cranmer has always been in favor of fishing at the reservoir, but he alone does not have the final say, otherwise fishing would have gone on there for the past several years.

Where were the sportsmen when I took it on myself to try and get this place open for fishing? They did not come to my support. They were informed of my activity, now they have come to life and request my assistance to get an agreement with the city of Salem to open the reservoir for fishing.

O.K. boys, I was there, I will be there at a possible future meeting with the city fathers, but I will be in plain clothes as I am not a resident of Salem and my uniform is worn only on state business. I want it known I am in favor of fishing at the reservoir, period. If I can help out in any way I will do so gladly, but keep in mind you let me down at one time when chances for public fishing seemed very good and a little push by local sportsmen was very much needed.

Another great big problem will be run into — who are the experts who know how to manage a body of water to keep what is called a "well-balanced" fish life in the reservoir? How much policing will be required? Who knows when and what kind of fish should be stocked, what kind of fish are in the lake at present, and where is the money coming from to buy a test net which costs no less than $400?

What will the cost be to supervise and control this area? If the lake is well inhabited by warmouth bass and slimy green sunfish, who will take the responsibility of netting these fish out or killing them with a fish tox and pay the cost of manpower needed to try and correct a situation that has come about when fish, native to Cold Run, have been pumped in the lake?

What is desirable is one thing but what you get is another. Big bass, whopper walleyes and good eating trout are most desirable. Anticipation can be dimmed by realization.

I HAVE NO AUTHORITY to speak for the Ohio Division of Wildlife of any possible future action by the state. But, I wonder if a lake has been managed by inexperienced people and the undesirable fish are allowed to take over and the time comes when someone says "I give up, let the state have an easement as they have the necessary equipment and manpower needed along with the best trained technicians in the U. S., so since we have done a good job of mismanagement let's give it to the state as they might be able to correct a bad fishing condition." — Is there any reason to believe the state would want it under these conditions?

Only an unlearned person would accuse the State of Ohio of not having the best trained personnel in the U. S. on their payroll and all of them are not native sons. Basic and applied research has been going on for years and will continue to go on and some of the answers are known, but much is yet to be learned. Mistakes have been made, some mistakes have been corrected, past mistakes are not repeated but the field of research must go on in fish management as well as any other well-run business organization.

Making sportsmen happy is one thing, good fish management is another thing, but to leave the fish in a body of water that does no one any good is still another thing.

Something should be done that would permit fishing in the reservoir.

Foreign Policy Change

By JOSEPH R. SLEVIN

WASHINGTON — The administration is getting set to propose a major change in U.S. foreign trade policy.

It will be the first big departure since Secretary of State Cordell Hull fathered the reciprocal trade program in 1934 and it's scheduled to go to Congress next January.

The new program will call for a rapid move toward freer trade and will reject the increasingly vehement demands of protectionist congressmen for tougher tariff walls.

It will provide federal "adjustment assistance" for American companies and workers that are injured by imported merchandise. But the aid will have a time limit and the American firms eventually will have to work out their own salvation or go under.

The administration's chief immediate objective is to strengthen the competitive position of U.S. exporters in the booming European Common Market. It figures that the U.S. can win critically needed tariff concessions for American goods in Europe only by giving generous tariff reductions to the Europeans.

Problem has Urgency

The problem has taken on greater urgency in recent weeks as it has become increasingly certain that the six Common Market nations soon will be joined by the United Kingdom. The original six are France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, and the Netherlands.

The Common Market nations are progressively eliminating the tariff walls that they have maintained against each other while they continue to maintain stiff tariffs against foreign merchandise. The wiping out of their internal tariff will give them free access to each other's markets and outside suppliers—such as U.S. companies—will be placed at a grave competitive disadvantage.

The judgment of high administration officials is that the U.S. must bargain its way into the Common Market or find that its manufacturers are increasingly unable to sell their products in Europe.

Straight-Out Bargaining

And it will be a straight-out bargaining task for the Common Market nations are booming and have the economic power to exclude American goods if the negotiating terms don't suit them.

"If we do nothing, we cut ourselves out of the biggest market of the 1960's," one official says. "We'll hurt those companies that are most able to compete abroad just so that we can protect those that are least able to compete at home or abroad."

The U.S. has been preaching the benefits of free competitive enterprise ever since the end of World War II. In the late 1940s, it began pressing for the creation of the European Common Market as a way of using freer international trade to strengthen the European economies and to prepare the way for political integration of the participating countries.

What the administration now has decided is that the American prescription for Europe also is the proper remedy for America. "It's time for us to have the future courage of our past convictions," an official says.

The administration program is being fitted together by Howard C. Petersen, a Philadelphia banker who is serving as a special

White House assistant. Mr. Petersen is president of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co. and vice chairman of the Committee for Economic Development, a nationwide business group. The chief new device that currently is under active consideration calls for cutting U.S. tariffs across-the-board in exchange for comparable slashes by the Common Market countries.

trade program traditionally has called for painful, item-by-item bargaining that has led to protracted negotiations, enormous political pressures on the administration and far smaller concessions than the U.S. must obtain if it now is to compete successfully in the dynamically growing Common Market.

Company Picnic

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that of the Christmas parties have fallen into some disrepute, many thoughtful corporations are filling this gap in the starved lives of their employees with summer picnics. The annual office picnic is a prolonged coffee break that has many advantages over Christmas parties for the sponsoring firm: Such as:

It isn't held on company time or company premises, so no employee can fall off a company desk and sue the organization for damages; Wives are invited; Even though the picnic is held as late as August or September, the most wayward hired hand feels a compulsion to report again for duty before the first of the new year; and Since it isn't the Santa Claus season, the employees can't very well ask, "Where's the bonus?" Therefore, it is easy to understand why more and more of America's giant industrial firms are choosing to leave the celebration of Christmas to the sanctity of the home and pepping up employee morale with an office picnic.

If you have ever been to an office picnic, you might recognize the following characters: Doubtful Donald—He is sure the hot dogs are reconditioned leftovers from unsuccessful 1960 county fairs, and the company bought them at half price. Helpful Harry—"My gosh, it isn't fair for the firm to do everything for us—we ought to do our bit, too," he says. He proudly unloads his contribution—35 cents worth of potato salad—and spends the rest of the day dreaming about when his loyalty will get him a $10 a week rise in pay. Poor-Mouth Monty—He chokes on gratitude. As he reaches for his first (and his 10th) piece of chicken, he murmurs brokenly, "Only in America, only in America, could you find a company that would give—where's the white meat? Who took all the white meat?"

Athletic Abner—He sat on the second-string bench in high school, but at the office picnic he's strictly varsity. "Let's play baseball, let's play football," he urges. But he's a good sport. He doesn't mind limping home with a broken bone—so long as everyone else does too.

Gracious Gertrude — It seems only patriotic to the sultry stenographer that she should go behind the nearest sand dune and listen to each office husband explain why his wife doesn't understand him.

Practical Pete — He's the shop steward. "We already run out of mustard," he remarks. "This could be a grievance case." Penny-pinching Penelope — "I'm not hungry," she says fastidiously. "But if there are any leftovers I'd like to take them home to our dog." She wraps up enough choice food to provide her husband with free lunches for three weeks.

Ambitious Albert—Beer in hand, he fixes the boss with foamy eyes and for five straight hours tells him, "Now if I were running the business, I'd—"

The picnic ends at dusk. The employees roll homeward on wheels of good cheer. As a point of honor and good faith, they all show up on time the next morning, eager as ever to avoid work. All except the boss. After the annual office picnic, he feels the need of a long, well-earned rest in Bermuda.

Washington Phone Calls Monitored

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Big brother may not be watching you, yet, but his secretary probably is listening in on your telephone calls to government agencies."

That's the conclusion of the House Government Information subcommittee after a survey of telephone monitoring practices of 37 major government agencies.

The report, issued today, said 33 of the 37 federal agencies permit some kind of telephone monitoring—if you include having a secretary make notes of dates, numbers, future engagements and the like.

It added that 21 agencies have no regulations on telephone monitoring, and 17 do not always require that the other party be warned that what he is saying is being taken down.

The report said most agencies "rationalize it as an aid to efficiency. When monitoring is done secretly and becomes eavesdropping, however, the bureaucracy is sacrificing principle on the altar of efficiency."

The report said there were indications of "a dangerous drift toward a huge bureaucracy peering over the shoulder of the citizen."

The survey was conducted by the staff of the subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif. The subcommittee was fought for five years to make information on government business more accessible to the public.

The report said it found 363 transmitter cutoff switches and 240 listening-in circuits on telephones going through a switchboard operated by the General Services Administration. It said the great majority of these was on phone lines of the Welfare Department.

A transmitter cutoff switch is a button that shuts off the transmitter part of a telephone, so someone can hear but cannot be heard. A listening-in circuit is another method of hearing without being heard.

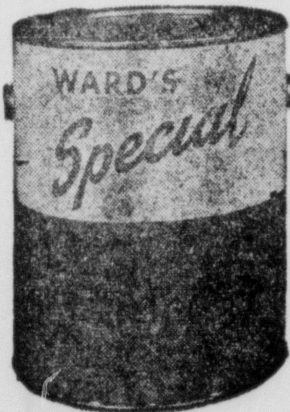

The telephone company charges extra for both devices, and the report estimated that "many thousands of dollars a year are spent on the listening-in devices."

Most of the U.S. stainless steel production comes from Massillon, Ohio.

Congress Plods Toward Weekend Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress plodded today toward a possible weekend adjournment with a half dozen important issues awaiting action.

Many House members already had pulled up stakes and had left for home. About a score of senators already had departed or were leaving for meetings abroad.

Leaders of both houses hoped for a speedy agreement today on the amount of foreign aid money that will be made available for the current government year and on the final terms for establishment of a disarmament agency. The Senate voted $4,196,600,000 in foreign aid funds and the House $3,657,500,000. President Kennedy originally had asked for $4,762,500,000 and Congress had agreed earlier to authorize up to $4,253,500,000.

The House scheduled a vote today on a compromise bill for permanent establishment of the Peace Corps, already approved by the Senate.

The Senate was expected to give speedy approval to the nomination of Fowler Hamilton, New York lawyer, as new foreign aid chief.

Senate-House conferees slated a meeting to try to work out differences on the proposed new disarmament agency. The House voted to set up a separate "Arms Control" bureau with a head directly responsible to the President. The Senate had acted to place the agency under the State Department with an undersecretary of state as its head.

Plenty of power... wherever it's needed

America's Investor-Owned Electric Light and Power Companies to double transmission line investment in next 10 years

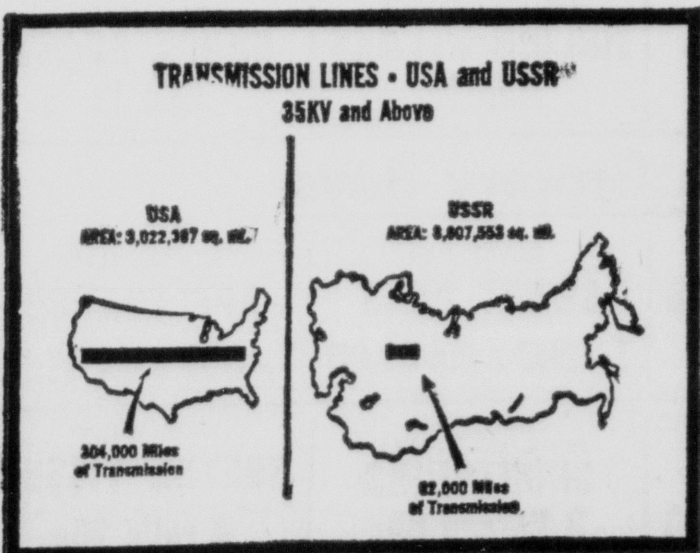

USA's electric transmission network growing rapidly in every way

MILES OF TRANSMISSION LINES IN USA have increased steadily—from 155,000 miles in 1930 to 364,000 miles in 1959. By 1970, this figure will have reached nearly 500,000 miles. These lines will be interconnected from coast to coast to form a giant nationwide power grid.

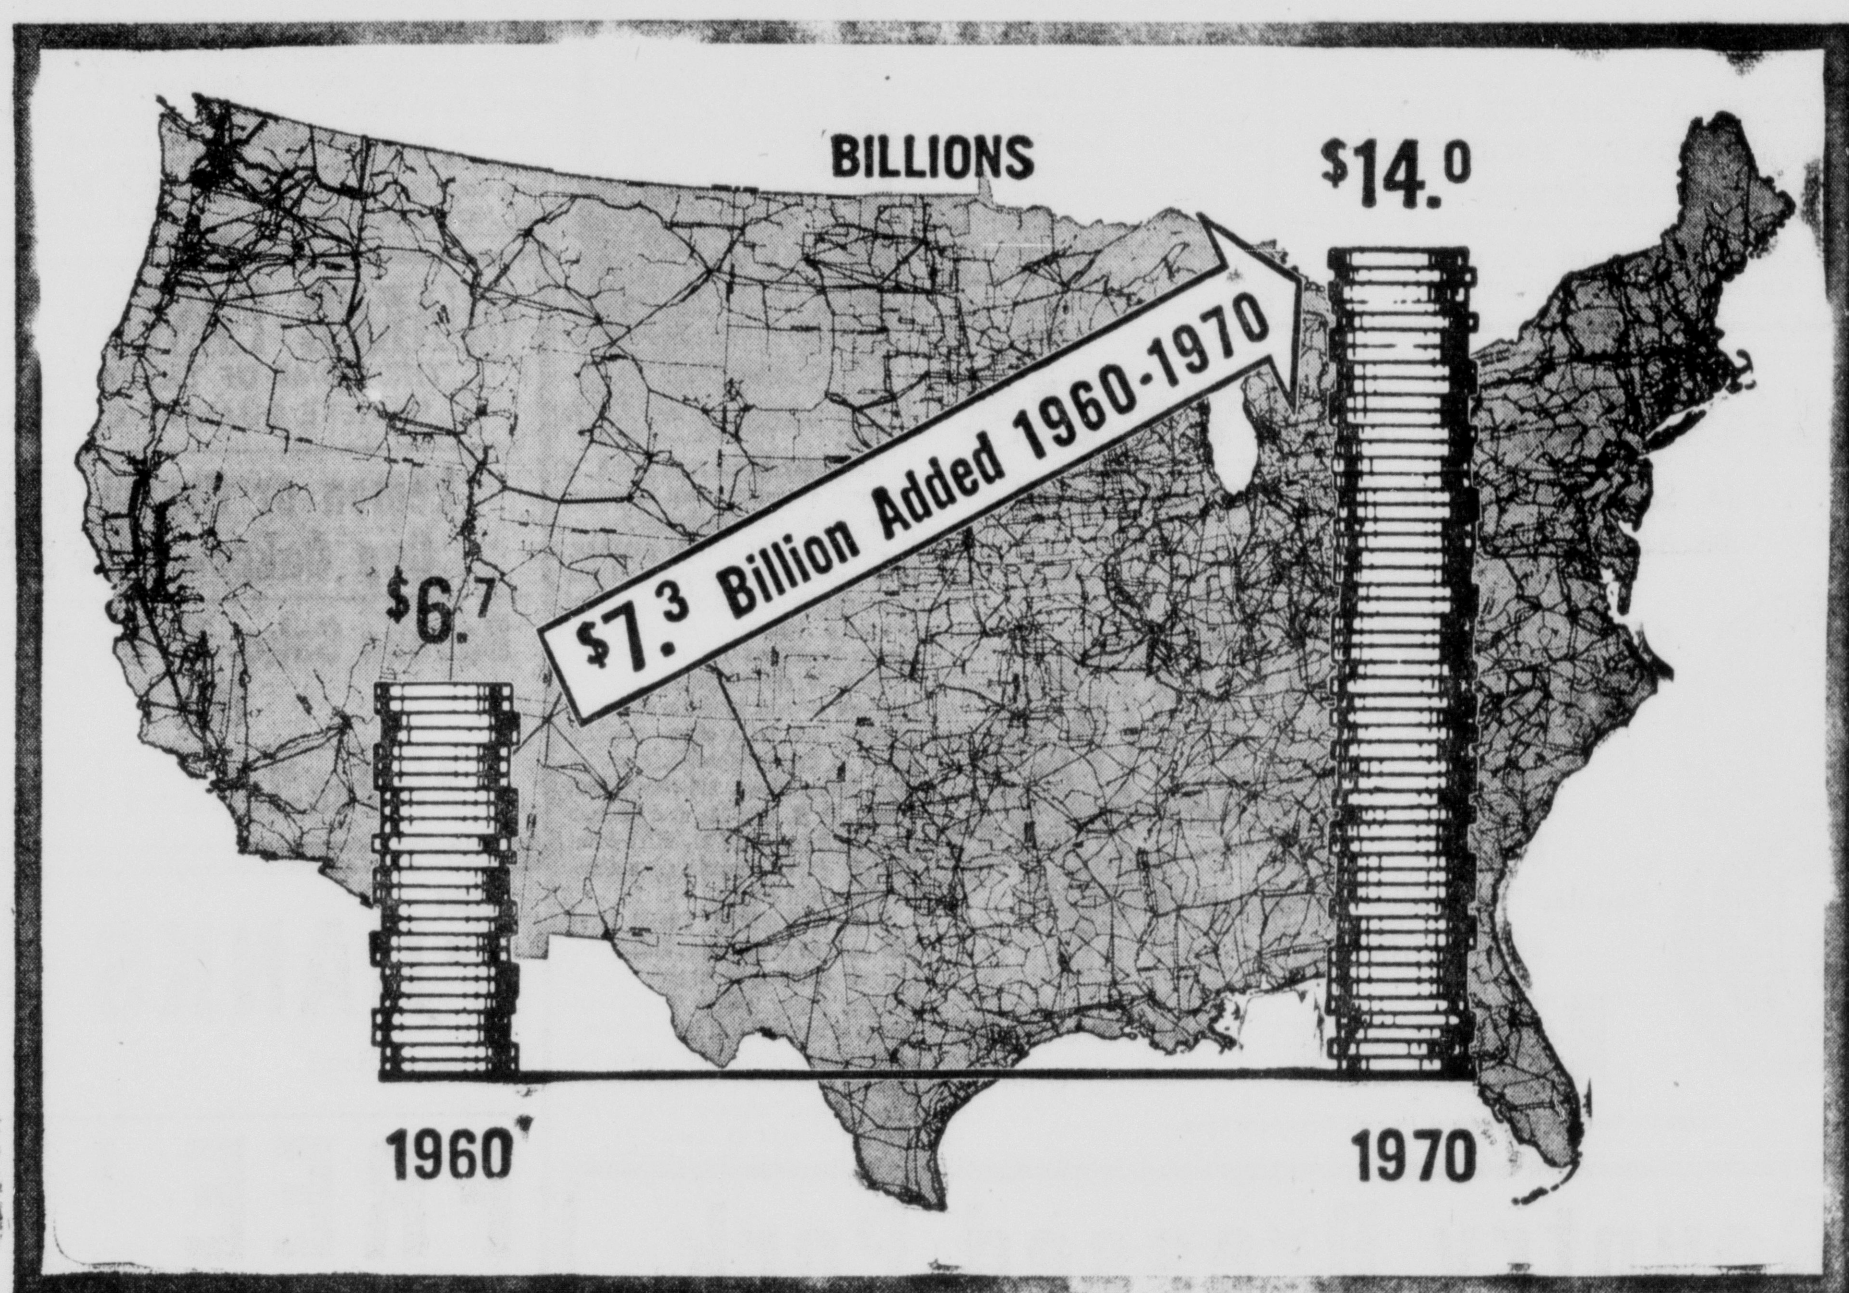

MAXIMUM TRANSMISSION VOLTAGES have climbed from 150,000 volts (150 kv) in 1913 to 460,000 today. Still higher voltages are likely. For example, an investor-owned electric company, in association with several manufacturers, has been operating an experimental line of 775,000 volts.

COMPARISON OF USA AND USSR shows America to have about five times as many miles of transmission lines as Russia on about 1/3 the land area. It is virtually impossible for Russia to construct a comparable transmission network in the foreseeable future.

Companies will add over $7 billion in transmission facilities between 1960 and 1970. Result: Still more power for America... wherever and whenever it's called for.

Behind the stacks of money above is a map of the nation's major interconnected electric transmission lines—present and proposed through 1970. Some of the lines shown are those that the electric companies expect to be built between 1960 and 1970.

The overwhelming bulk of these new lines will be built and financed by the investor-owned electric companies. To build them, the companies will increase their investment in transmission facilities by some $7.3 billion between 1960 and 1970 inclusive, as shown by the two stacks of money. This will more than double the present investment in transmission facilities—increase it from $6.7 billion to $14 billion.

By the end of 1970, it is expected that all the major power systems will be capable of operating on an interconnected basis throughout the United States. Already 100 electric systems in 32 states east of the Rocky Mountains are interconnected. West of the Rockies, there has been extensive use of interconnections for several years. The investor-owned companies originated the interconnecting and pooling idea many years ago.

The proposed expansion of the electric light and power companies' already vast transmission system offers important benefits for electric customers. Service can be even more dependable because power can be brought to any one point by additional routes. Costs can be held down because the most economical sources of power can be used.

Many of the transmission lines now planned will operate at 345,000 volts. Some will be constructed so that they can be converted at a future date to 500,000 volts. Others will be 230,000 or 115,000 volts, to suit the needs of the systems involved.

This giant transmission network is needed to carry the greatest concentration of electric power in the world. With only about 1/16 of the world's population, the U.S. today has about 1/3 of the world's electric power-producing capacity. We have more than the next five countries in the world combined, three times as much as Russia. And our present capacity is expected to double by 1970.

To build ahead of the nation's needs, the electric power companies have been spending more than 3 billion dollars a year on plants, lines and equipment. This is equivalent to 10% of all new construction for all American business, and it is the largest of any single industry.

And the power companies' construction expenditures will be even greater in the future.

The investor-owned electric light and power companies are engaged in the greatest building program of any industry in the nation. They can supply all the additional electric power needed to keep America the most powerful country in the world.

This zesty entree sparked by chili powder, canned tomatoes and sharp cheddar cheese has bits of bacon for a meaty flavor. It's such an easy dish to make, with hand pantry shelf ingredients, that it's headed to become your favorite last-minute supper.

Though skillet Spanish rice is a low cost dish, the cheddar adds plenty of nourishment and savor you'll enjoy.

4 slices bacon, butter, 1/2 cup minced onion, 1 cup rice, 2 cups (1-lb. can) tomatoes, 2 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon chili powder, 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese.

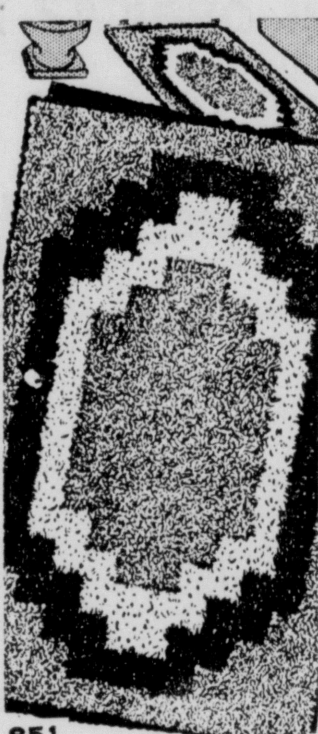

Partially fry bacon; remove from skillet, drain and cut into small pieces. Measure bacon fat in skillet; add butter to make 1/4 cup. Combine melted fat, onion and rice in skillet; saute, stirring constantly, until rice is browned and onion is tender.

Remove from heat; stir in bacon pieces, tomatoes and juice; water, salt, pepper and chili powder.

Cover and return to heat; simmer until rice is tender and liquid is almost absorbed, about 20 minutes. Stir in cheese; heat, stirring occasionally until cheese is melted. Makes 4 servings.
